

How to set up an RSS Feed.

First of all, what is an RSS Feed? Well, RSS means “Really Simple Syndication” (honestly). It alerts your web browser - Firefox, Internet Explorer etc - to new items on whichever website you subscribe to. In practise, you don't have to actually go to the website in question to see if there is anything new, you simply look at the RSS link you are about to set up.

1. Go to <http://www.westcumbriaphotogroup.co.uk/news/newsfront.php> and click the orange button. This will take you to a new page.
2. This is the RSS page. At the left of your address bar should be a + sign. Click it. A drop down box will appear.
3. This is the RSS Bookmark drop down. Give the feed a name that will mean something to you. I called mine “WCPG Feed”. Under this are 2 checkboxes, make sure the one for safari is checked, and then tell it where you want it to go. I would suggest choosing “Bookmark Bar” from the drop down menu.
4. That's it. When something new is available, a number will appear next to the bookmark. Click on it to see the new item.
